

Veterinary Wellness Center

The medical services offered at Veterinary Wellness Center are a unique combination of the standard veterinary services such as surgery, medicine, dentistry, and nutrition combined with complimentary and alternative therapies such as homeopathy/homotoxicology, herbal/botanical, and chiropractic. This combination offers an integrated medical approach with a greater variety of options for many difficult clinical situations. These medical approaches were chosen in an attempt to maximize the body's healing potential.

Since there are many therapeutic options available at the Veterinary Wellness Center, the following questions are intended to help us to serve your unique needs and interests better.

In choosing to utilize alternative therapies, it is important to realize that many of these approaches are considered to be unproven by appropriate double-blind clinical studies. However, there are many years of clinical use that have demonstrated the utility of these therapies. Even though this is true, it must be clearly understood that complete validation of the ramifications of using complimentary and alternative therapies has not been fully evaluated.

It is our recommendation that when alternative therapies are chosen, attention must also be given to appropriate use of conventional methods. The entire spectrum of therapies should always be explored. This is important because each method has its own advantages and disadvantages and should be applied in its most useful form.

I understand the above and have asked questions for clarification as needed.
